Generation 1

1. MOSES¹ WEINREB was born in 1840. He died in 1897. He married YOCHAVED SPIEGEL. She was born in 1840. She died in 1905.

Notes for Moses Weinreb:

The children of Moses (Moishe) Weinreb and Yochaved Spiegel were born and lived in what was then the province of Galicia in the Austro-Hungarian Empire. They married and had their children there, with the exception of Getzel who married in the US. Most of them and their children emigrated to New York City in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, both before and after World War I. Israel and Frieda died in Europe. Most who remained died in the Holocaust. Most of the grandchildren were born in the metropolitan New York area. They and their families, though living mainly in the East, are now dispersed throughout the United States.

Although Galicia was part of Austria-Hungary since 1772, it had previously been part of Poland for 400 years, and even under Austria was governed by a Polish minister. (Galicia had originally been Halicz, a Russian principality in the area of Ruthenia, part of the Ukraine). Galicia once more became part of Poland in 1918, after World War I. During World War II, East Galicia, which was populated mostly by Ruthenes, was ceded to the USSR as part of the Russo-German pack and is now part of the Ukraine Republic, West Galicia remains part of Poland. The towns where the Weinrebs lived were mainly in East Galicia, eg. Kosowa, Brzezany, but also in West Galicia, eg. Rzeszow.

Dear Sander,

Harry immigrated in 1910. and Gussie about 1913. Harry was in the army but must have been excused early due to the fact he had relatives fighting on the other side.

He had rights to farmland in Sterling, CO., through the government program, the Homestead Act. He farmed awhile, raising corn. We don't know for how long.

He worked as a clerk in a hotel in Colorado. The unabridged Webster dictionary was his English tutor. (We had one in our home in The Bronx.) On Jewish holidays he would board with a family in town near the hotel.

He worked in the restaurant business as a waiter. Then, he became a partner in the Chain Restaurant in The Bronx. It was open 24 hours, 7 days a week. He worked the night shift, didn't have a day off. He slept during all day. He took off for the Jewish holidays and special events.

His partner and he sold the Chain Restaurant. For his final working years, he was sole proprietor of the Kingsbridge Delicatessen, where my mother helped with the cooking and serving. They had a weekly day off there.

My mother left Europe at 15 on a visitor's visa but since World War I started, she remained in the U.S. She worked in a factory as a seamstress till she married my father in 1924.

Thelma and I lived in the Bronx till we married. My parents moved from The Bronx to Miami in the 1970s, and they enjoyed life there near the Weinreb clan. .

Notes for Sander Weinreb:
My Father During Prohibition
By Dr. Sander Weinreb, 8/2002

The 21 Club (www.21club.com), located at 21 East 52 St. in Manhattan, is one of the world's finest restaurants; it is frequented by very famous people such as presidents and movie stars. During the prohibition era it was a high-class "speakeasy" for illegal sale of imported liquor and the Weinreb family had a connection to this unlawful establishment! The club was founded by Jack Kreindler and Charley Bernfeld. Charley was my Uncle Jack Weinreb's brother-in-law - he was Bea Weinrebs brother and kind enough to give my father, a recent immigrant, a job as a waiter and later as a "checker" who checked the food orders.

My father, Maurice Weinreb (Morris before he became a waiter at the 21 Club), told many stories about his work at "21". One of the stories was that the mob tried to force the club to buy inferior liquor from them rather than from the quality Canadian and Scotch suppliers. Jack told them not to mess around with the club because every waiter was packing a gun (of course, none of them had guns) and it worked. This was a key act of courage which helped to make the business. To this day 21 Brands Distrilleries is the importer for the Ballantine branch of scotch.

Another story my father told me was about where the liquor was hidden in case of a raid. The kitchen was in the basement and in a sub-basement under the kitchen there was a tiny hole in the wall. When a wire was poked through this hole, the wall would open up into a cave beneath the building next door (unbeknown to its owners, probably the Woman's Christian Temperance Union) and this is where the booze was stashed.

A few years ago I was in New York with my wife, Marjie, and grown children, Glenn and Ellen. I asked them where they wanted to eat, and groan to my wallet, they said "21 Club where grand-daddy used to work"! Our reservation under the name Weinreb, of course, was graciously accepted. When we arrived I told the maitre-de that my father worked here 60 years ago and I know the secret about the liquor cave. Did it still exist? He told us to enjoy our dinner and afterward he would arrange a tour of the sub-terranian facilities.

We had a wonderful meal, fully worth the $250, and were then escorted through a spotless kitchen, down some steps into a sub-basement. Sure enough, it was just as my father had described it, a wire was inserted through a hole to trip an elaborate mechanism that slid the wall open. What was in the room now? It is a private-stock wine cellar with cubicles labeled "Richard Nixon" and "Elizabeth Taylor", among others. In the middle of the room an elegant table was set with about 12 place settings. The room is available, upon request, for private parties. So, next time you are in Manhattan with a group willing to spend of the order of $100 a head for a superb dinner in an Weinreb-roots atmosphere, phone the 21 Club and request the table in the speakeasy wine cellar! Bon appetite!!
